The artist was John Lawson, and carver, Derek Marshall from Faithcraft Studios of Westminster, London.

Painted by Stan Moses

Bas Reliefs

- A reredos of frescoes depicts the industries of the area. Above the altar reigns Christ the King, surrounded by an attentive band of North Queenslanders –

a scholar from James Cook University, two students from the Diocesan Schools of Saint Anne (now the Cathedral School – model June Campbell) and All Souls (now All Souls and St Gabriel's), a miner, a cane-cutter, and a grazier/ stockman (modelled on Bill Collins from Proserpine), who represent the major industries of the diocese (cane farming, mining and grazing)

Some of the cost of the carvings were the gift of companies with interests in North Queensland:

Australian Estates met the cost of "the grazier", Colonial Sugar Refineries the "cane cutter" and Mount Isa Mines, the "miner".

High Altar

- ...the [altar] consists of a table with a mosaic front carried out in gold Ravenna tessera, is a work of art of a special kind not easily available here (in Australia). The work has been done for us by Faithcraft Studios of Westminster, London.”
- Letter to Department of Customs and Excise requested waiving of duty, 13 November 1961.
- It features a gold and marble mosaic of the Diocesan Crest, the Agnus Dei (Lamb of God) along with text: ‘Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world’. (On arrival it was found that the wording was incorrect “takest” not “taketh”. This was changed by Stan Moses)
- Gifts towards the altar by the Province of West Indies, Mr C.F. Raymond and other friends of the Church in North Queensland
- It contains the ashes of
 - Bishop Feetham, 1913-1947
 - Rev Boggo Pilot, 28/02/82 Aged 60
 - Bishop Grosvenor Miles. 15/07/78 Aged 76
 - Rev Lambton Died 12/07/79 Aged 92

Processional Cross and Candle sticks

Stan Moses designed and made the Processional Cross and Acolyte Torches. Of red cedar with mosaic tiles and brass.

The arms of the cross are fleuronned- an heraldic term meaning flower shaped ends

The red cedar (toona Australia) grows in North Queensland. This rare wood is light, soft and takes high polish and is very durable indoors.

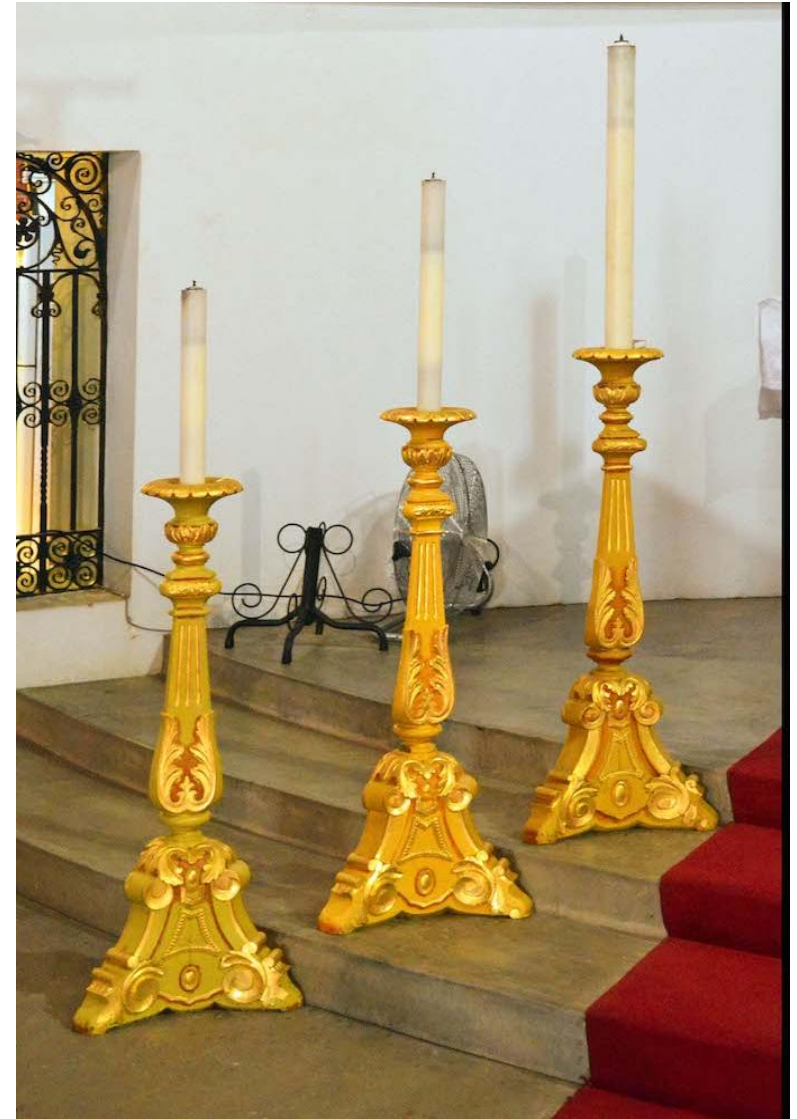

Cross donated in memory of Noel and Del Melrose and candlesticks in memory of Eric Field
